

1.4 Prepositions

Gold Standard Sentences

Reserved for graded testing

GS (feedback): 77, 79, 82, 83, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 111, 112, 113, 123, 124, 125, 128, 129, 133, 135, 136

GS (testing): 80, 81, 90, 91, 92, 122, 131, 137

1. They made oaths, contrary to the law.
2. The polemarch paid the peltasts.
NOTE: Literally, “gave pay to.”
3. Pasippidas the Lakonian was fleeing from Sparta.
4. Eutypolemos spoke concerning the generals.
5. Hieramenes and his brother were speaking to Darius.
6. They were besieging [him] by land and by sea.
7. Tissaphernes and Derkylidas and the barbarians were living in peace.

NOTE: βάρβαρος has no connotation of “uncivilized” or “culturally backwards.” It was a catch-all term meaning anyone who did not speak Greek. In particular, it was applied to the Persians.

8. The ones at home stopped [deposed] the generals except Konon.

NOTE: The preposition here limits the scope of “generals” and so acts as an ATR. –The verb παύω is cognate with English pause.